

Michigan claims to have gained 50,000 new settlers in her northern counties this year.

Statistics show that from 1874 to 1881 there was a decrease of twenty per cent. in crime in New York City.

In January next there will be twenty-five Democratic Governors, the greatest number ever known. The next highest number was in 1878, when there were twenty-four.

Ex-Senator Harlan, of Iowa, father-in-law of Secretary Lincoln, says that Lincoln is anxious to leave public life, if he could only see his way clear to get back to his law office.

President Jarrett, of the Iron and Steel Workers' Union, says the steel men refuse to meet employees to fix next year's wages, and that they propose to suspend operations at the opening of the year till Congress acts on the report of the Tariff Commission.

The United States Commissioner of Education gives figures to show that in 10 years private benevolence in this country has given for educational purposes no less than $61,374,000, and this does not include the recent gifts of Slater and others, amounting to $8,000,000. The largest sum in any single year was $11,236,000 in 1873, and the smallest $3,015,000 in 1877.

The Youths Companion, of Boston, is a sprightly, entertaining paper, deservedly popular, and is, without exception, the best of its kind published in America. It is filled to overflowing with the choicest original matter, and so diversified a character that it never fails to interest, instruct and amuse, and is welcomed in the household by young and old alike.

Edward McPherson, Clerk of the House, has been engaged several days in making a list of members of the next House. He says he has completed the roll as far as he is able, and the Democrats have a majority of sixty over the combined Greenbackers, Independents and Republicans. He has asked for additional information concerning the vote in several closely contested districts, and believes the final showing will somewhat reduce the Democratic majority.

The Eastern newspapers are cracking jokes about the remarkably large footprints in the State Prison yard at Carson. For instance, the Troy (N. Y.) Times says: "The giant footprints in the solid rock found in Nevada are now supposed to have been made by an Albany girl." And the Boston Gazette risks lynching by saying: "Certain excavations recently made in Nevada revealed in the sandstone the distinct impress of a woman's foot nineteen inches long, left there ages and ages ago. And yet they have been playing St. Louis off on us for a modern city!"

The bill for the admission of the southern half of Dakota as a State will be pressed during the coming session of Congress with better prospects of success than attended the introduction of the bill last Winter. A chief objection urged against the bill was that interest on certain county bonds in the territory had been suspended. Since that time measures have been taken to secure such payment, and an unusual increase of population furnishes another strong argument for the passage of the bill. It is claimed that the proposed new State has gained 100,000 population during the year and now has 275,000.

A great deal has been written about the necessity of an extra session of the "new" Senate immediately after the 3d of March to fill the chair and thus provide for the Presidential succession. This will be entirely unnecessary provided the Senate attends to the duty before the adjournment. The Senate is never "new" because it is a continuous body, two-thirds of its members, or enough for a quorum, always holding over. If Mr. Davis will vacate his chair for an hour another Senator whose term does not expire till 1875 can be elected and he can finish the term. If, however, Mr. Arthur should die before the 4th of March and Mr. Davis should actually enter upon the duties of the Presidency, he would probably continue to administer the government till a new President could be elected and qualified. In other words, his term as President would not be contingent upon his term as Senator, he having passed out of that office to a higher one. It will be seen that our laws are very incomplete and liable to be seriously muddled, if not actually set aside for the want of proper authority to execute them, and the country accordingly revolutionized.

The American Agricultural Association will hold its third annual convention in Chicago on Tuesday, Dec. 12. A very large attendance is anticipated, and without doubt the meeting will be of greater importance to agriculturists than any similar meeting hitherto held in this country. A number of the most eminent agriculturists will be present and deliver addresses upon topics of vital import, and there will be extended discussions upon the most important questions pertaining to agriculture. The subject of ensilage, which has attracted much attention within the past year or two, and which has many opponents as well as numerous adherents, will be made an especial feature. Among the other subjects to be discussed at length will be stock-breeding, dairying, transporting and the tariff. It is also expected that some action will be taken in regard to holding a national agricultural and industrial exposition next year.

England owns and holds $20,000,000 of stock of the Suez Canal.

THE PEOPLE TO THE FRONT.

The old and conservative N. Y. Journal of Commerce, in its issues of November 9th, says:

Those who have feared the growing influence of fuscipulous millionaires in American politics may now take courage. The people are not for sale to the highest bidder. In ordinary elections, when no grave issues are involved, money may possibly buy a percentage of votes sufficient to turn the scale. But when the people rise in political revolution—as they did on Tuesday—no profusion of bribes can affect the result. Crossbuses are as fond of their dollars as other men. They do not spend except to increase their hoard. Tuesday's election is a lesson for them, as impressive as for the professional politicians. If any one of them should hereafter indulge the vain dream of controlling State or national legislation by purchasing the votes of the people, a moment of reflection will check him. Every dollar wrung by the Administration from the immense army of its officeholders and spent in support of its candidates was only a new incentive for spirited popular resistance to its methods and aims. For each vote gained by corruption five votes were lost. It is the party without the offices and the candidates without the money that, with some exceptions here and there, won the victories. Good men of all parties joined by their votes in condemning the abuse of power and patronage at the polls. In all similar great emergencies we believe that the independent voters of both parties may be trusted to do the same thing. They will not sell themselves to railroad kings any more than to Federal administrators. Legislatures may be bought. State commissioners may be as venal as Mr. Vanderbilt says they are. Judges and juries are not beyond the reach of corruption. But these are purchased in small lots only. It is quite another thing to set about the acquisition of a majority vote in a great city, or a State, or the nation, when some vital question has stirred the popular conscience to its lowest depths, and aroused resentment and retribution. It is then that political cyclones sweep over the country, and candidates who thought to buy their way to office are caught up and whirled off of sight like autumn leaves. It is then that ambitious monopolists discover the great difference between buying the majority of stock in a telegraph company and the majority of the popular vote. We are happy to think their power for mischief is limited. The people will not be controlled by such men, but will control them and their schemes by necessary legislation, as time will show.

Pacific Coast Lumber Interests

Later announcements have been issued from the census bureau giving the statistics of forestry of the States of California and Oregon and of Washington Territory. With regard to California the Bulletin says: The principal trees of the State are redwood, red fir, tide water spruce, chestnut and oak on the Coast Range, and sugar pine, yellow pine and red fir on the Sierra Nevada. The principal lumber industry is confined to the redwood belt on the line of the Central Pacific Railroad on both slopes of the Sierra Nevada, to points in Butte, Tehama and Mono counties, and in the San Bernardino mountains. The total product of the State for the census year was 304,795,000 feet of lumber, 242,400,000 laths, 138,718,000 shingles, 2,863,000 staves and 1,203,000 sets of barrel headings. In Oregon the most valuable trees are in the order as set down: red fir, tide water spruce, red cedar, hemlock, Port Orford cedar, white oak, sugar pine, chestnut, oak, larch and scrub pine. The principal lumber industry centers near Portland and Empire City. The product of the coast regions for the census year was 151,443,000 feet of lumber, 17,950,000 laths and 2,745,000 shingles. The product of the State east of the Cascade Range was 25,795,000 feet of lumber, 235,000 laths and 2,235,000 shingles. Washington Territory is covered west of the Cascade mountains by the heaviest belt of forest growth in the United States. The most valuable trees of this region are red and yellow fir (covering about seven-tenths of the forest growth), red cedar, hemlock and water tide spruce. East of the Cascade mountains the most valuable trees are red fir, yellow and white pine, larch, red cedar and hemlock. The principal lumber region is confined to the shores of Puget Sound. The product of this region for the census year was 144,387,000 feet of lumber, 6,550,000 laths, 710,000 shingles and 2,366,000 staves. The product of the coast outside of Puget Sound was 9,599,000 feet of lumber and 200,000 shingles, and of the Territory east of the Cascade Range, 6,199,000 feet of lumber and 2,700,000 shingles.

It is reported that some of our best society people propose leaving Carson for California as soon as they dispose of their property.

So says the Carson Tribune, right in the face of the fact that convicts to the State Prison are flocking thither from all parts of the State, and the Legislature will soon be in session. What are Carson's society people afraid of? Are they looking for the removal of both the Prison and the Legislature to Reno after the coming session? Why don't they go and settle in Reno.—Austin Reville.

LOST ON THE DESERT.

Three Men Wander for Forty-eight Hours Without Food.

The Lakeview Examiner says: "One day last week Hawley Bull started to move his sheep from the Summer range onto the desert for the winter. When the start was made in the morning the sheep were divided into two bands. Mr. Bull taking one and David Cleland the other, while Jas. Briner was delegated to take charge of the pack horses with the camp outfit, provisions, etc. The snow was falling rapidly at the time, making it impossible to see very far in any direction. The desert being level and covered with sage brush, it is a very difficult matter to keep from losing one's self there, especially when there is a driving snow storm and the winds are constantly changing as it was at this time. The consequences were that the men became separated and lost and wandered aimlessly over the barren waste entirely ignorant of their own whereabouts or that of their companions, and all the time suffering excruciatingly from the extreme cold and the blinding snow and sleet. The men managed to keep the sheep in sight the first day and night and the next day. On the evening of the second day out Mr. Bull stopped his sheep and attempted to lie down and rest himself, but the cold was so severe that he was compelled to go in quest of some sage brush from which to make a fire. He found some brush about half a mile from where he had left the sheep and he made a fire and lay down beside it and fell asleep. In the night he awoke suffering severely from cold and found that his fire had gone out. He proceeded to replenish it and again went to sleep. When he awoke daylight was appearing and he went in search of his sheep. He found them where he had left them. The coyotes had attacked them and had killed six of them and were eating off of one of the carcasses when Mr. B. made his appearance. He dispatched one with his rifle and the others scampered off. The report of the gun was heard by Cleland, who was with his sheep about a mile and a half from there, and he came over to where Bull was. All this time the men had been without food of any kind and the provisions were with Briner on the pack-horse, and he was nowhere in sight. Luckily it cleared up about this time and Briner, who had been wandering off toward Warner Valley, made his appearance with the camp outfit, and the men proceeded to prepare themselves some food, and of which they stood much in need. Briner had been riding all the time and had not stopped to prepare any food, so anxious was he to find the other men and lend them his assistance. Mr. Bull had his feet frozen, but took prompt measures to draw the frost from them immediately they struck camp and he does not apprehend any serious effects therefrom. The others escaped with no injuries except the exhaustion naturally following from exposure and fatigue without food."

Out of Respect.

The following circular has been received by Amity Lodge, No. 8, K. of P., and has been addressed to all Lodges in the State by Grand Chancellor Mitchell:

GRAND LODGE, KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS, JURISDICTION OF NEVADA. OFFICE OF GRAND CHANCELLOR. VIRGINIA, NEV., Dec. 4, 1882.
To the Officers and Members of Amity Lodge, No. 8—Dear Sirs and Brother Knights: It is with a feeling of profound sorrow that I am called upon to announce to you the death of Grand Vice Chancellor A. E. Shannon. He died at Eureka, Nevada, October 30, 1882. His sickness was short, his death was sudden. As the shadows of evening were barding the end of the day set apart for our national thanksgiving, the shadows of death were closing in about him, and as the sun departed beyond the western hills, his spirit departed to the land beyond the grave. Brother Shannon came to Nevada in 1883, and from that time to the time of his death, continuously occupied positions of trust under the Government. He was one of the pioneers of Pythianism in this State, and was twice elevated to the honorable position of Grand Vice Chancellor of this jurisdiction. The death of a good man is a sorrow only to his friends. Sickness and pain no longer trouble him, our brother is at rest. He sleeps the sleep of a valiant knight, and the mystical letters upon his shield sparkle as brightly as when he first went forth to battle in our ranks. He died in his Pythian armor, in the midst of the fray, the tears of his brothers moisten his last resting place, and the recollections of his genial, manly qualities will ever remain a pleasant memory with us. As a mark of affection for our deceased Grand Vice Chancellor, let the different Lodges in this jurisdiction be draped in mourning for sixty days after the receipt of this letter.

Brother Mercer Oley, of Harmony Lodge, No. 13, Grand Inner Guard, is hereby appointed Grand Vice Chancellor, ad interim, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Brother Shannon; and Brother James Murray, of Toiyabe Lodge, No. 9, is hereby appointed Grand Inner Guard, ad interim, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the promotion of Brother Oley. They will be obeyed and respected accordingly. Fraternally, in F. C. and B., R. B. MITCHELL, Grand Chancellor.

Journal's Holiday Book.

The JOURNAL's illustrated Annual for 1883 will be distributed to subscribers about the 20th. Every subscriber of the Daily and Weekly JOURNAL will certainly appreciate it. It will have fifty illustrations on wood, chiefly by Darley, Moran, Schell, Whitney, Woodward and other celebrated American artists. The cover is an exquisite piece of the Aldine's best. The contents of the Annual are as instructive as interesting. The almanac portion is complete in every way. The book is the best ever yet gotten out for the purpose for which it is intended.

To Ladies.

Suffering from functional derangements or any of the painful disorders or weaknesses incident to their sex, Dr. Price's treatise, illustrated with wood-cuts and colored plates, suggests sure means of complete self-cure.
